

APPLY TODAY TO JOIN THE BLACK 2
JUST TRANSITION
ASSEMBLY AND TRAINING IN DETROIT, MICHIGAN

Thursday,
November 8

Just Transition Tour
- Moving from a
Dirty Extractive
Economy to a New Regenerative Economy

Friday,
November 9

Exploring History
to Understand
Ways Forward -
Environmental Justice
& Black Liberation

Saturday,
November 10

Just Transition
History & Emergent
Strategy Framework

Sunday,
November 11

Just Transition
Pathways
for our Future

Monday,
November 12

Debrief, Evaluation,
and Next Steps

EMEAC

Photo by Brook Anderson

The East Michigan Environmental Action Council and the Climate Justice Alliance are convening an assembly and training for up to 60 allied community organizers.

Environmental Justice & Black Liberation

Black 2 Just Transition Assembly & Training

For decades, Detroit has been home to some of the worst environmental injustices in the U.S., while also being a historic hub for visionary, black liberation struggles and organized resistance. Based on these historic traditions, the East Michigan Environmental Action Council (EMEAC) has been cultivating a movement for a Just Transition. Our Just Transition strategy involves a three pronged approach for building community power and resilience:

- Being rooted in youth, family and community led organizing - using art and cultural expression to cultivate our collective commitment
- Alignment through intergenerational, political education - learning the roots of our liberation struggles to allow us envision pathways forward
- Trans-local network building to build solidarity economies of caring and sharing

To apply, visit bit.ly/Black2JustTransition

Contact: Dorteá E. Thomas, EMEAC, Midwest Just Transition Organizer, dorteaa@climatejusticealliance.org

